

E-Waste Business Boot Camp 2018

For e-waste entrepreneurs looking to scale up

The E-waste Business Boot Camp (BBC) aims to provide focused skills and knowledge to e-waste entrepreneurs based in developing and emerging countries wanting to scale operations. The boot camp will enable the participants to connect to investor networks, customers and vendors. The overall objective of the BBC is to catalyse the development of the e-waste management eco-system and support the setting up of environmentally and commercially sound e-waste management solutions in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

who

- Entrepreneurs who contribute to circular economy for electronic waste: e.g. in repair/re-use, reverse logistics, collection, dismantling, recycling, app-based solutions among others.
- Small and Medium-sized Enterprises (SMEs) based in Africa, Asia or Latin America. Companies from other regions may only be considered if in partnership with local companies in these regions.

how to apply

- Download the application form from www.ewasteacademy.org
- Fill in the form and submit with a CV and/ or company profile to ewam@unu.edu.
- Application forms must be submitted in English. The language of the BBC will be English.
- Participants will be selected by a Technical Committee according to their motivation and commitment, or relevance to their business.

where

Berlin, Germany

when

10 - 14 Sep 2018

applications close

31 May 2018

participation fee

€650*

*Participation fee covers:
Economy class flight tickets to Berlin, accommodation during the BBC, all meals including breakfast, lunches, joint dinners and site visits for the entire duration of the BBC.

Full or partial grant towards the participation fee may be requested.

contact us

For questions and clarifications, contact us at ewam@unu.edu

sponsors